

Greetings!

As I was reading my Bible last week the last sentence in I Corinthians 4:5 captured me. Each one will receive praise from God. Wow! Is that awesome?

The Creator God, King of the universe may one day praise me. The thought of that happening to me brought a flood of emotions to my heart.

First, humility, who am I to be praised by God. I felt like Peter must of felt when he said ". . . I am wicked."

Secondly, fear filled my heart as I thought, "what if I had let Him down, what if my motives were not pure, what about all that I have not done for Him."

Then a sense of purpose came over me. My prime directive in life is to win the approval of my heavenly Father. It does not matter if men think I am a success or failure as long as the One who sees inside the heart is pleased.

In the ministry there are many highs and lows but let us labor for the smile of our Father.

Pastor Carl

We praise God for the seven souls baptized this past Sunday night.

Around the World

Did you know that each one of us is a part of the worldwide body of Christ? This series takes kids around the world to explore how God is moving all across our planet and discover our special role in His big plan. We'll watch from our World Missions Headquarters and track what God is doing all around the world! This series opens kids' eyes to life outside our borders and show them how they can send Bibles, prayers, money, and even themselves around the world to spread God's love!

KOMpray

"Let the little children come to Me, and don't stop them, because the kingdom of God belongs to such as these," Luke 18:16b

KOMpray: Kids on Mission Pray offers prayer requests about children-children around the world who are just learning about Jesus and Missionary Kids (MKs) who share His love along with their parents. The goal is to encourage children of all ages to pray and trust God to answer! At the dinner table or before bed take a few minutes to pray for international missions. We encourage you to subscribe to KOMpray at www.kompray.imb.org and integrate it in to your family routine.
